Schedule:

I'm working this afternoon and evening to put together a rough calendar for the course. I hope to have something to post on Wednesday (the 15th).

Homework:

The homework is for you to practice. It will not be collected or scored. Essentially, you need to think of the homework as practice for the exams. Any item assigned as homework is the sort of item I would expect you to be able to do on an exam.

Zoom Meetings:

I'm planning to have Zoom meetings which will essentially serve as "study sessions" or "office hours". The link to join these is on the class web page. You are NOT required to "attend" these sessions, although you are certainly welcome. The purpose is to give students the chance to ask about homework and to work solutions out. If you have only one or two questions and want to leave, that's fine. If you have questions the entire time, that's fine. If you want to simply listen to other people's questions, that's fine.
